My World

Tell us all about your imaginary world. Can you super challenge yourself to include every colour in the rainbow in your setting? On your marks, get set... Go! Write your ideas below:

What can you see?

I can see... (example: a bright red beach and a whale walking.)

What can you hear?

The sound of... (example: snails barking at the blue moon.)

What can you smell?

If you sniff, you can smell... (example: stinky green socks.)

What can you feel?

I can feel... (example: the grass felt like slime.)

Who (or what!) is there?

You can meet... (example: talking yellow trees that tell terrible jokes.)

All about adverbs, adjectives and similes

Adjective

An adjective is a word that tells you more about a noun (a naming word).
For example: "A man-eating peanut". (The adjective is in red. The noun is in bold.)

Adverb

An adverb is a word that describes a verb (an action word).
For example: "Raindrops that are talking loudly." (The adverb is in red. The verb is in bold.)

Similes

Similes are phrases that compare one thing with another.
For example: "Dogs that are as big as a house."
